adam: thanks to river city for their information response. we have reviewed it and there are several areas on which we will follow up, including the "quickbooks" issue. we will be in touch regarding the follow-up over perhaps the next few weeks.

first we want to address the extremely broad cbi claim that the company made with the response. we are happy to treat actual cbi with all due protection, but its burdensome to treat general information and non-confidential documents as cbi. a broad cbi claim will even make it harder for us to communicate with you about information relating to the case.

are you willing to work with the company to hone its cbi claim to information that it actually maintains as confidential?
